

SIO 278 – Seminar in Ocean Biosciences

Spring 2016 – Tues. 2:00-4:00pm

Vaughan Hall 328

Dr. Michael Landry mlandry@ucsd.edu

Dr. Paul Dayton pdayton@ucsd.edu

Dr. James Leichter jleichter@ucsd.edu

This is a seminar class in which the students review the deep history of their thesis question. They will discuss the origins of the question and as appropriate how the big question has evolved through time.

The class includes an introductory lecture about the importance of being aware of the older studies and considers how scientific icons are made, how they differ from business as usual and how students can present their science so as to maximize the role of the scientific foundations while presenting their contributions in a way that will have maximal impacts on the field.
