Instructor Office Hours: There will be time to speak to me individually during class or immediately after class. You can also email me for an appointment.

Course structure: ESYS 187B is predominantly an independent student internship with a one hour/week seminar component.

Seminar Objectives: There are several objectives of the one-hour seminar component in ESYS 187B:

- Clarify and provide information on the internship requirement
- Build skills and management tools to define project goals and timelines
- Ensure progress on the project goals
- Develop a supportive ESYS student community
- Address and issues or problems that arise – both as a group and individually
- Forum to host guest speakers and offer useful workshops

Attendance: A tentative schedule is provided below.

Grading: ESYS187B is offered P/NP and is based on the successful completion of your internship hours and deliverables.
